The 11th ASEA-UNINET Plenary Meeting was held on 9 - 12 February 2010 in Bangkok. The Meeting was co-organised by the ASEAN-European Academic University Partnership Network (ASEA-UNINET); Office of the Higher Education Commission, Ministry of Education, Thailand; and the 18 ASEA-UNINET university members of Thailand. The ASEA-UNINET Plenary Meeting takes place once every 18 months, alternately held in a European and an Asian country. Members of the ASEA-UNINET decided at the 10th ASEA-UNINET Plenary Meeting in Vienna to choose Bangkok as the venue for the 11th Meeting.

The 11th ASEA-UNINET Meeting participated by 44 foreign delegates from Austria, Indonesia, Italy, Malaysia, the Philippines, Spain, Vietnam and 35 delegates from Thailand. Dr. Sumate Yamnoon, Secretary-General, Office of the Higher Education Commission and His Excellency Dr. Johannes Peterlik, Austrian Ambassador to Thailand presided over the Opening Ceremony. Your Excellency Dr. Johannes Peterlik, Austrian Ambassador to Thailand,
Rectors and Vice Rectors of ASEA-UNINET Universities,
ASEA-UNINET Coordinators,
Distinguished Guests,
Ladies and Gentlemen,

It is indeed my great pleasure and honor to join this important gathering of the ASEAN-European Academic University Network community. May I, on behalf of Office of the Higher Education Commission, Ministry of Education and Thai ASEA-UNINET member universities, extend our warmest greetings to all of you to the 11th ASEA-UNINET Plenary Meeting. I wish your stay in Bangkok will be both fruitful and enjoyable.

Today, ASEA-UNINET consists of 68 Member Universities from 16 countries. The Network continuously conducts capacity building activities, which provides opportunities for all the members to upgrade academically and professionally. Since the founding of ASEA-UNINET until now, I believe the expanded network of scholars and its collective activities had enabled members of ASEA-UNINET to make greater contributions to the better future of Asia and Europe.

Before starting our meeting, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the ASEA-UNINET coordinators for successfully implemented its cooperation by building up excellent relationships with many partner universities in the network. I can assure you the full support of Office of the Higher Education Commission for the Thai participation in the ASEA-UNINET collaborative projects and activities.

I would very much like to see this gathering serving as a policy forum to advise and guide the direction of ASEA-UNINET toward its intended goals. The agenda for the 11th ASEA-UNINET Plenary Meeting includes discussion and exchanging of perspectives on focus areas and the presentation on the outcomes of discussions, which will be later synthesized into concrete plan of action for our further reference and tangible implementation. I do hope that this friendly forum will bring about innovative ideas and substantial recommendations, which can be converted into actual action and progress the work of ASEA-UNINET even further into a new horizon.

Distinguished Participants, Ladies and Gentlemen,

I hope that the expansion of ASEA-UNINET memberships will help reinforcing our academic strength and enable ASEA-UNINET to make added contributions to ASEAN and European's sustainable prosperity and development. We all share similar anticipation that the ultimate outcome of our efforts is to maximize the benefit of the capacity building of our faculty members, staffs, researchers and students. Consequently, this forum will not only serve as a means to create closely knit collaborative network among members of ASEA-UNINET, but to guide and to monitor our collaborative activities as well.

We sincerely wish that the Action Plan in four focus areas proposed at the 11th ASEA-UNINET Plenary Meeting in Bangkok will provide a clearer direction for effective collaboration and implementation among members of the Network. It needs you all to make it happen. And I'm sure you all will make it happen.

The last but the most notable person I wish to thank sincerely is Professor Dr. Rode who has dedicated himself all these years wholeheartedly to foster our ASEA-UNINET cooperation. Without his sustained efforts, our strong linkages would not have been made more successful. Although, today he cannot join this Plenary Meeting but I truly believe that he would like to see the success of this Plenary Meeting nurtured even further.

In conclusion, once again, I would like to thank all the ASEA-UNINET Coordinators and all participants for your value contributions to this meeting. I wish ASEA-UNINET will be a significant platform for all of us to learn new insights and exchange our experiences. I wish all participants every success and your expectations fulfilled.

Thank you.

Dr. Sumate Yamnoon, Professors, Ladies and Gentlemen!

It is a great pleasure for me to attend today's opening session of the ASEA - UNINET Plenary Meeting here in Bangkok. I am particularly pleased to have been given the opportunity to address this meeting and I want to thank the Commission on Higher Education for hosting this event which - after 1996 and 2001 - is the Third Plenary Meeting held in Thailand.

As you all know ASEA-UNINET started with informal contacts between the University of Innsbruck and Thai Universities back in the late 70s.

Then in the 1980s, first Partnerships were concluded between the University of Innsbruck and Chulalongkorn and Mahidol in Bangkok; the University of Vienna and Chiang Mai; and the University of Agricultural Sciences in Vienna and Kasetsart in Bangkok.

In 1992 Innsbruck/Chulalongkorn/Vienna/Chiang-Mai included one another in their cooperation and interconnections were established between Austria's partner institutions in Thailand and other countries in the region. The idea of ASEA-UNINET was born.

Then in 1994 the initiator, Prof. B.M. Rode, invited interested universities from Austria, Indonesia, Thailand and Vietnam to attend the 1st Meeting in Ho Chi Minh City, with the aim of unifying all these bilateral partnership agreements into one multilateral partnership.

That year (1994) the network already comprised 25 Universities from Austria, Thailand, Indonesia and Vietnam.

Since 1997 many other countries and universities have joined; today it is a network of 16 countries with more than 60 universities, with 17 coming from Austria.

With this size, ASEA-UNINET truly lives up to the mission statement laid down at the First Plenary Meeting in 1994, namely: to encourage and facilitate cooperation between academic institutions and to promote scientific, cultural and human relationships as well as personal contacts. The Network encourages and initiates projects of mutual interest and benefit for faculties, staff and students and assists in forming coalitions of resources for academic activities between member institutions.

From the Austrian side ASEA-UNINET has been tasked with the handling of the “Technology Grants Program for Southeast Asia” whereby Austrian professors (some of them are present today) choose graduates/young scientists for either a post-doc or PhD Scholarship to study and do research in Austria.

We also support master classes – together with the host countries - of Austrian musicians in the region and provide scholarships for young musicians to study in Austria

And Austria looks forward to continue its support for ASEA-UNINET and to continue working with all partners to help ourselves and this region realize the extraordinary promise laid down in the ASEA-UNINET mission statement 16 years ago.

Ladies and Gentlemen!

In closing, let me draw your attention to the change Asia is undergoing at the beginning of the 21st century. In the space of two generations, Asia has become a region in which the old stands side by side with the new, a region that has gone from soybeans to satellites, from rural outposts to gleaming mega-cities, from traditional calligraphy to instant messaging, and most importantly, from old hatreds to new partnerships.

In my view, scientific cooperation between Asia and Europe must reflect these new realities and the extraordinary potential that resides within.

ASEA-UNINET has taken a great stride toward regional integration of science and research, and its capacity for innovation and global competitiveness. I also like to see ASEA-UNINET in its openness to participation of more Universities as one giant agent of science diplomacy. And I look forward with great enthusiasm to the further development of this network in the coming years, as well as increased European-Asian science cooperation in engaging countries in the developing world on the great societal problems we share in common.

With such thoughts and hopes, I would like to wish all participants inspiring discussions during this plenary meeting and a memorable stay in Bangkok.

Thank you for your attention!

Prof. Napatawn, Vice President of Mahidol University, opened the meeting with a Welcome Address and then the MU participants introduced themselves and their faculties/institutes.

Mr. Thepparat shared the background of the Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities with the group, and mentioned that it currently offers 17 programs, 3 of which are international programs instructed in English: 1) PhD in Buddhist Studies in collaboration with Oxford University, 2) Master Degree in Educational Management, and 3) Master Degree in Health and Social Sciences. Prof. Arthur Mettinger expressed interest in cooperating with the Faculty of Social Science and Humanities in the area of Educational Management, as the University of Vienna is strong in this field and provides training to more than 6,000 high school teachers in Vienna each year.

Ms. Sunida Siwaphomchai introduced the Research Institute for Languages and Cultures of Asia, which has 2 main focus areas: 1) research and teaching and 2) provision of Master degree programs. Research at the Institute concentrates on ethnic groups in Thailand and neighboring countries; examples of some research projects conducted in the past have been concerned with Bio-linguistics in the South and revitalization of endangered languages. In this regard, Mr. Junaidi felt that cooperation between Mahidol University and University of Indonesia could be mutually beneficial as his university is strong in multi-cultural studies and issues related to conflict resolution in Indonesia. In addition, Prof. I Made Suastra from Udayana University in Bali, Indonesia expressed interest in collaboration with Institute of Languages and Cultures of Asia.

In the area of Peace Studies, Prof. Michele Marsonet from the University of Genoa, Italy expressed an interest in collaboration, and in response MU proposed exchanges at the PhD level. Furthermore, Prof. Marsonet explained that due to Italy's, particularly Genoa's, geographical proximity to the Austrian border, and the bilingualism (Italian and German) in the region, the university has taken a keen interest in exploring innovative research in Biolinguistics.

In the fields of medicine, science and technology, Prof. Susilo Wibowo from Diponegoro University, Indonesia pointed out that collaboration with the Faculty of Public Health, Mahidol University had recently been established, and that Diponegoro University is interested in cooperative activities with Mahidol University's Faculties of Science and Engineering as well. Prof. Wibowo also mentioned that he knows Assoc. Prof. Pattamaporn Kittayapong from the Faculty of Science, MU and that the university is interested in joint research on stem cell and liver transplantation.

After the meeting, the university arranged a campus tour and program as follows.
